

SENTENCED HOME

By Nicole Newnham and David Grabias

FREE COMMUNITY
SCREENING EVENT

Raised as Americans in inner-city projects near Seattle, three young Cambodian refugees each made a rash decision as a teenager that irrevocably shaped their destiny. Now facing deportation back to Cambodia years later, they find themselves caught between a tragic past and an uncertain future by a system that doesn't offer any second chances.

FREE FILM SCREENING & DISCUSSION

In Honor of the 60th Anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights

SENTENCED HOME

December 2nd, 2008

6:00pm-8:00pm

Hardman Hall, Room 106

New Mexico State University

Join the ACLU Border Rights Project and the NMSU Center for Latin American & Border Studies for a special film screening and panel discussion on the human rights implications of U.S. immigration policy and expanded detention and deportation operations. The film, Sentenced Home, asks us to consider the human cost of our unforgiving immigration laws and the toll they take on individuals, their families and ultimately, on all of us. Following the film there will be a discussion led by individuals who have witnessed the impact of these harsh U.S. policies and recommendations for taking action to create change.....

This event is FREE and OPEN to the PUBLIC. For more information please contact: Emily Carey at 575-527-0664, ecarey@aclu-nm.org or Dr. Neil Harvey at 575-646-6814, nharvey@nmsu.edu
